New land tax hotline opens

Land tax payers will be able to obtain early notice of the valuation used to calculate their 2006 land tax assessment via a new telephone hotline, the Office of State Revenue (OSR) said today.

NSW Chief Commissioner of State Revenue Peter Achterstraat said the new hotline had been established to provide convenient and timely access to land valuations for NSW land taxpayers.

The land tax threshold for 2006 is $330,000.

"Registered land taxpayers will receive a letter from the OSR over the next few weeks," Mr Achterstraat said.

"The letter will advise them how they can check their land valuations via a new OSR telephone hotline.

"We want to do everything we can to help NSW land taxpayers access the information they need as early as possible."

Registered land taxpayers can obtain their land valuations by calling the telephone hotline on 1300 308 863. The hotline is open from 8.30am to 8.30pm Monday to Friday.

Land valuations are provided to the OSR by the Valuer General.

A land tax calculator is available on the OSR website www.osr.nsw.gov.au to help landowners determine if land tax applies to their property.
